ENDURA SINGLE- TRACK £44.99

Singletracks are short in the leg so for this test we went up a size but it was no longer in length, it seems you will just have to get used to this. They are made from hardwearing Cordura with a Teflon HT treatment, which offers some water resistance before it washes away. Zip leg vents with mesh liners allow good airflow and, unlike the Hummvee short, Endura hasn't gone overboard on the pocket count. The liner has the trademark Clickfast fitting, which allows you to press-stud both garments together, not that we used it when wearing both shorts. Singletracks are double and triple-stitched for durability and are functional, with plenty of adjustment and detailing. They come up on the short side but they're full-on in the quality and value stakes.
